Bang Goes the Brain Trust.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

A CORRECTION: It was stated on the authority of a gentleman from Alabama that many cotton farmers receiving money from the government for plowing cotton under had invested part of that money in fertilizer to get, if possible, as big a crop on the remaining 50 per cent of acreage as they would have got on the whole.

A number of gentlemen in the cotton region, including Mr. H. W. Hardy of Sumter, South Carolina, say that cotton growers are using government money to fertilize the entire crop.

They couldn't do it if they wanted to, says Mr. Hardy, because the government hasn't yet given them their money.

THE LATEST NEWS is that the "brain trust" has exploded, and Professor Moley leaving the state department to run a weekly paper for Vincent Astor and W. A. Harriman. The weekly will support Franklin D. Roosevelt, the NRA and this administration, Professor Moley will edit in and Vincent Astor will be publisher.

Somebody might say to Professor Moley and Vincent Astor what Horace Greeley said in the 1840s. Albert Brisbane, returning from Europe as a young man, helped Greeley with the Tribune financially, secured for Charles A. Dana a job on the Tribune as exchange editor, and was disappointed in the Tribune's policy. "You are too conservative, Greeley," said Albert Brisbane. "I shall start a weekly and say some things that need to be said." The wise Greeley replied: "Don't do that, Brisbane. It will cost you a lot of money. You won't get the circulation. I will sell you a column on the front page of the Tribune every day; you pay me advertising rates. It will cost you less than the weekly, and you can say anything you please, as long as I am not responsible.

ALBERT BRISBANE took the wise advice, and in the files of the Tribune back in 1842-43 you will see on the front page a daily column signed Albert Brisbane and paid for by him, "for the dissemination of his ideas."

One of his children, thanks to William Randolph Hearst, has a column on many front pages, and does not pay advertising rates for the privilege.

Astor, Moley and Harriman might save money buying a page in the newspapers every day. That would give Professor Moley a bigger audience.

The NRA "big parade," as Fitzpatrick of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch points out, is under way, and no one is safe who stands in the way of it.

Governor Lehman has signed a law suspending New York state's anti-trust law. "Anti-trust" might have to be "anti-NRA," so that law fades away.

In Michigan, Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general, tells the national association of other attorneys general that no court will dare stand in the way of NRA.

THANKS to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's kind heart, there has been established a camp for "forgotten women."

There they are well fed. A kind-hearted "counselor" "sees to it that they rest after meals." It is comforting to read of that. The pity is

LAMSON NEIGHBOR ON WITNESS STAND

Tells of Offensive Order Coming from Bonfire Tended by Defendant.

By The Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 29—Testimony by a neighbor that an offensive odor came from the bonfire which David A. Lamson was tending just before the body of his wife was found in the blood-spattered bathroom of his home brought the prosecution today toward the climax of its effort to convict Lamson of murder.

The testimony was given late yesterday by Mrs. Sylvia D. Bailey, wife of a professor of history at Stanford university, who lives near the Lamson home on the Stanford campus. The smile which the 31-year-old Stanford press executive had worn most of the day faded quickly as Mrs. Bailey told her story.

Mrs. Bailey's testimony was brought as a part of the state's attempt to prove Lamson beat his attractive young wife to death last May 30 with a 10-inch length of iron pipe which later was found in the embers of the bonfire.

The prosecution announced it would have testimony from deputy sheriffs that they not only found the length of pipe but also burned bits of cloth in the fire. On both the pipe and the cloth, through the county pathologist, Dr. Frederick Proescher, the state will claim it found evidence of charred blood.

LITTLE HOPE SEEN FOR CUT BY UTILITIES

Council Hears Water, Gas Negotiations Are at Standstill.

SLACK MAKES REPORT

C., D. & M. Likely To Be Only Company To Reduce Rates in Marion.

Informal reports that gave Marion residents little hope for reductions in water and gas rates were submitted to city council last night by two members of the ordinance and franchise committee, which has been negotiating for utility rate reductions for several months.

These reports came from W. G. Slack, member of the committee, and were confirmed by Frank W. Little, chairman. Henry H. O'Dowd, third member, indicated he was in favor of giving the Marion Water Co. another opportunity to study the problem here before definitely discontinuing negotiations.

Unless there are unexpected developments, the ordinance and franchise committee will submit written final reports to council on Sept. 25 covering all negotiations for rate reductions. This was agreed to by members of the committee after an informal discussion of the status of negotiations last night.

Electric Only Cut

To date, the C., D. & M. Electric Co. is the only utility that has responded to council's efforts to obtain lower utility rates for Marion. That company recently made reductions estimated to effect savings of approximately $100,000 a year for the various classes of electric consumers in this city.

Utility talk was brought into the meeting last night when a councilman asked if the ordinance and franchise committee had received an expected report from the Marion Water Co.

"Frankly, I don't expect any report," Mr. Slack answered. He added that, at the present cost of softening water and on the basis of present consumption, the company had informed him that no reduction could be made either in hydrant rentals or in prices paid for residential water service. He asserted that council's request for quotations on unsoftened water had been ignored.

"I'm convinced that our only possible relief is in a municipal plant," Mr. Slack declared.

Says Study Delayed

Mr. O'Dowd interposed a statement that George Whysall, manager for the Marion Water Co., had explained to him that confusion in the home office of the Marion Water Co. over a workable NRA code for utilities had caused a delay in the consideration of Marion's request for lower rates. He said Mr. Whysall and one of the directors of the home office familiar with the Marion situation were to confer with the other directors of the company early in September regarding Marion's request, and urged that a final report of the committee

OHIO C. OF C. HITS NEW UTILITY TAX

Mt. Gilead Man Expresses Chamber's Opposition To State Levy.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 29 — Backed by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, public utility corporations were united today in stern opposition to additional taxes on their gross earnings.

Through its president, Frank B. McMillin of Mt. Gilead, the Chamber of Commerce voiced its support of the utilities' stand at last night's hearing before the joint taxation committee of the legislature, seeking a means of financing school operations.

Appearing with corporation representatives from all parts of the state, McMillin declared his organization was on record as opposed to any new taxes on the ground they were not needed for the schools.

He said his opinion was based on a survey by the Chamber and promised to supply figures intended to show that education might be financed by reallocation of present taxes.

Additional utility taxes, McMillin told the committee, would result in increased rates, encourage public ownership and hamper industrial recovery. F. M. Stephens, operating vice president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., declared that 47.03 per cent of his company's net revenue would go for taxes this year.

FARM ACT UPHELD IN COURT DECISION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 — Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the agriculture adjustment act.

Dismissing a suit for a temporary injunction which would restrain Secretary Wallace from enforcing the Chicago milkshed agreement, he declared the emergency justified the law.

Roosevelt Chooses Interior Secretary Administrator of Industry's New Code.

TO BE VIRTUAL DICTATOR

Cabinet Member Will Seek To Restore Order in Petroleum Business.

By The Associated Press

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 29—President Roosevelt today named Harold L. Ickes, his secretary of the interior, as the administrator of the new working agreement for the oil industry.

The President will name the other 14 members of the oil planning and conservation committee within the next 24 hours, taking under consideration a list of names submitted by Ickes.

As oil administrator Ickes will have the virtual power of dictator over this industry which has been engaged in a war that led to overproduction and a wrecking of prices. Price fixing is possible.

Ickes also is the Roosevelt administrator of the $3,300,000,000 public works program and it is likely he will rely strongly on an immediate assistant, expected to be James A. Moffett, former vice president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Naming his cabinet member to this office, the President showed that he intends to keep in close personal touch with the new deal for the disordered oil business as one of the major parts of his recovery campaign.

The price fixing advocates are expected to get the big majority of members representing the oil industry. K. R. Kingsbury of the Standard Oil Company of California is prominently mentioned as among this group, together with Wirt Franklin of Oklahoma, the president of the Independent Petroleum association.

Some reports said the anti-price fixers will have two members, C. E. Arnott of Socony-Vacuum corporation and C. B. Ames of the Texas company are discussed in this connection.

FARM ORGANIZATION DAY HELD AT FAIR

Large Crowd Expected at Exposition; Weather Is Called Ideal.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 29—Sunny skies and rising temperatures greeted visitors at Ohio's state fair today in happy contrast to opening day clouds and showers.

It was farm organization and county fair managers day with a colorful program of special features including a million dollar livestock parade, an all-Ohio high school band concert, harness racing, the horse show and many contests.

While rain held down the attendance during the opening hours of the exposition yesterday, fair officials predicted the crowds would equal, if not exceed, those of last year barring inclement weather.

The farm leaders and county fair managers were invited to attend the national shorthorn breeders show, the first to be held in the state.

For the first time in the fair's long history, pari-mutuel betting is permitted at the daily harness races. A law legalizing betting was passed by the recent legislature.

250 Volunteer Workers Open NRA Drive Here

Women Go Out for Consumers' Pledges; Local Electric Power Groups Comply.

NRA went forward in Marion today, as 250 women volunteers launched a house-to-house canvass to enlist consumers in support of the movement and two district meetings were scheduled here tonight for code discussions.

As the Marion postoffice's list of cooperating employers reached 805 at noon today, the signers included the C., D. & M. Electric Co., the Ohio Electric Power Co. and affiliated companies, one of the most important groups to certify NRA compliance since the movement got under way here.

Nationally, the movement was spurred by a basic agreement reached in Washington D. C. between representatives of labor unions and the coal industry, which will lead to the formulation of a coal code.

Retail lumber dealers from Marion and seven nearby counties will meet in Hotel Harding tonight to discuss the lumber code. In Hotel Marion tonight at 8, beauty parlor operators in this vicinity will hear Miss Johanna Ellis of Canton, an officer of the Ohio Hairdressers association, explain the code affecting that group.

Workers Expect To Finish Drive Friday

Two hundred fifty volunteer women workers today launched a drive to carry the NRA blue eagle into every Marion home.

The drive, similar to those in other cities over the country, is to continue through Friday in an intensive campaign to bring consumers under the wings of the President's recovery program.

Workers were spurred on this morning by a statement from Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, chairman of the city drive, in which she predicted the success of this week's efforts.

Predicts Success

"I have every reason to believe," Mrs. Ackerman said, "that Marion residents will sign the consumers' agreements readily. The insignia supply buttons authorized by the NRA officials in Washington, D. C., arrived in Marion yesterday and will be used by workers exclusively in this canvass."

The buttons, Mrs. Ackerman said, display the blue eagle with the word "volunteer" printed along with it.

Housewives, Mrs. Ackerman said, should give enthusiastic reception to the workers and aid them in every way to speed up the house-to-house drive.

To Report Friday

First reports of the drive's progress are expected tonight but will not be complete. A detailed

Utility Companies Comply With NRA

Thirty-one employers, including the C., D. & M. Electric Co., the Ohio Electric Power Co. and 12 affiliated companies, filed NRA certificates of compliance at the Marion postoffice in the period from yesterday noon until noon today.

The total of signers here now stands at 805 companies or employers who have agreed to comply with NRA provisions.

Chester C. Roberts, divisional charge of operations, said that firm's compliance would mean the retention of about 10 men who would have been laid off due to abandonment of interurban service. These men, he said, are being absorbed in other departments where NRA provisions required additional help.

Follow National Code

Mr. Roberts could give no figures on added employment for the other companies, as, he said, the problem is being worked out by the companies individually. The amount of the increase in payrolls was not given.

The code for the companies, which was filed by the National Edison Electric Institute of Chicago, embracing a majority of utility companies, provides for 48 hours a week for maintenance men, substation operators and other employes in similar work, and 40 hours a week for clerical staffs.

TRAIN PLUNGES FROM BRIDGE

Six Known Dead, 40 Injured, Many Missing in Wreck.

STRUCTURE WASHED OUT

Engine and Coaches Hurtle From Tracks Into Raging Torrent.

By The Associated Press

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Aug. 29—Six or more persons were killed, 40 injured and many passengers were missing when the Golden State limited, crack Rock Island train, plunged through a bridge into a water-filled draw five miles east of Tucumcari at 5 a. m. today.

C. J. Cross of Tucumcari, engineer, and four unidentified passengers were killed. James Randay of Tucumcari, fireman, was missing.

Forty passengers were rushed to a Tucumcari hospital, seriously injured and other passengers were missing.

Coaches in Water

Seven coaches went into the water, along with the locomotive. The draw, ordinarily dry, was a raging torrent fed by heavy rains of the last week, climaxed by a four-inch fall last night.

The Golden State limited was eastbound from the Pacific coast. T. F. Wheelock, mail clerk, the only man in the mail car, was among those severely injured.

The coaches plunged into a ditch alongside the earth fill on both the north and south sides, but were only partially in water. Three day coaches carried 43 passengers.

Bodies of five passengers brought to Tucumcari were not identified immediately.

Railroad officials here said the train was running only 20 miles an hour. It had stopped a mile west of the fill to investigate the track for possible damage. The east span of the bridge had been washed out, but the damage could not be seen from the west end.

Engine Submerged

The engine was submerged in the deepest part of the ravine. The mail car rested on top of the engine and the baggage car was at a 45-degree angle to the track beside the mail car. The next car, a coach was crosswise in the creek bed, partially on top of the baggage car. A Pullman tourist sleeper was also across the creek. All these were on the south side of the fill.

On the north side was a club car in the bed of the creek along with a standard coach, which was on its side. The head end of another standard coach was the only other car off the rails, the remaining Pullman coaches remaining on the bridge.

It was not known whether any bodies had been swept away in the torrent, or whether they were lodged in the wreckage. The engine crew runs from Tucumcari to Carrizozo, N. M., and the train crew from Tucumcari to El Paso, Tex.

HOME LOAN CO. STOCKHOLDERS MEET FOR VOTE

Session Is Continued Into Afternoon After Chairman Is Chosen.

TWO SLATES IN FIELD

Officials Chosen Are To Serve Until Next Annual Meeting.

After nominating two slates of directors in a morning session, approximately 350 stockholders of the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. recessed at noon today and prepared to meet again in The Star auditorium at 7:30 p. m. to elect a board of directors to serve until next January.

The morning session originally was adjourned to 2 p. m., but the committee auditing proxies had not completed its work by that time. At 2 p. m. it was announced that the meeting would be adjourned to 7:30.

The recess at noon was called to permit an audit of proxies representing the votes of hundreds of stockholders not present. The 350 persons present this morning represented only a fraction of the 3,300 stockholders of the company.

The morning session was marked by arguments between two groups of the stockholders over who should preside at the meeting, and over the legality of the various steps taken as the meeting progressed. Three attorneys took the floor to warn the stockholders that their style of procedure was illegal, but the meeting went ahead when R. E. O'Conner, leader of one group and chairman of the meeting, urged those present to ignore the warnings of the attorneys.

Both Seek Control

Vigorous efforts to get control of the meeting were launched at the very outset by both of the opposing groups of stockholders. One group centered around the present board of directors, the other around Mr. O'Conner.

Mr. O'Conner was elected chairman of the meeting by a majority vote of those present. This was immediately followed by a controversy of the proper method of organizing the meeting. The present officers contended that stock should be the basis of voting in the election of a chairman and that persons holding proxies should be entitled to vote them, just as is done in the election of directors. Mr. O'Conner, however, contended that the election of a chairman rested solely with the stockholders present at the meeting, and that each stockholder was entitled to one vote rather than one vote for each share of stock, up to 20, held by him.

Mr. O'Conner won out temporarily, but every step taken under his direction as chairman was opposed by stockholders friendly to the present board, who contended that because of the method used in electing Mr. O'Connor the meeting had become illegal.

Hayes Thompson, attorney for the loan company, J. Malcolm Strelitz and Hoke Donithen, also attorneys, advised Mr. O'Conner and the stockholders repeatedly that the action they were taking was not legal and was out of order, but their warnings were ignored.

It was moved and seconded that the meeting be adjourned until a chairman could be legally elected, but the motion lost. It then was

8 Reported Dead in Two Air Crashes

Army Planes Collide in Texas; Passenger Craft Wrecked.

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 29—Three Randolph field fliers, one flying instructor and two cadets, fell to their deaths and a fourth "bailed out" with a parachute and landed safely when two pursuit training planes crashed in mid-air at the field today.

Those killed in the first major accident at the "West Point of the Air" were Lieut. Harley R. Crater, instructor, of Lebanon, Ind., Cadet William Pasche of Chicago, Ill.; Cadet H. R. Sandberg of Denver, Colo.

Lieut. Louis K. Vaupre, instructor, leaped from his plane at an altitude of about 800 feet and came to earth safely. His ankle was broken.

Lieut. Vaupre told army officials his altimeter showed 500 feet immediately before the crash. He said the ship containing Lieut. Crater and Cadet Sandberg zoomed up and crashed into the side of his plane as he attempted to straighten out in a traffic lane.

All but Cadet Sandberg attempted a parachute jump. Lieut. Crater and Cadet Pasche fell within a few feet of the earth before their chutes opened. Sandberg went down with the plane.

CLOVIS, N. M., Aug. 29—A trimotor plane of the Trans-Continental & Western air line crashed 20 miles west of here during the night and its three passengers and two pilots were reported to have been killed.

Names of the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gore of Albuquerque, N. M., and their granddaughter, Evelyn Gore, 3 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gore of Amarillo, Tex. H. R. Morgan of Kansas City was the pilot and W. G. Bareus of Kansas City, the co-pilot.

The plane was found by J. H. Stratton, a rancher. Details were slow in arriving here because of the condition of the road. Heavy rains made transportation next to impossible.

Stabilization of Dollar Laid Aside by F. D. R.

By The Associated Press

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 29—President Roosevelt spurred on his domestic rehabilitation campaign today before leaving for Albany to inspect some bridges sponsored when he was governor.

A night of conferences with James A. Farley, postmaster general, and with Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, helped to put the new deal far along its way.

The bugaboo of stabilization of the currency in foreign exchange was very quietly laid aside by Mr. Roosevelt last night as he served tea to Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and George Harrison, governor of the New York federal reserve bank.

Mr. Roosevelt is willing to talk stabilization at a future time but quite apparently he does not consider the time ripe now. He wants the American dollar without its gold backing to find its true level with the currencies of other nations. He wants to know if the gold standard countries who are running behind in their budgets can remain on the gold basis. When all of these questions are settled, he will talk about a return to the gold standard on the world basis and not before.

FIRST TO GET FEDERAL AID

Street To Be Resurfaced from George to Routes 4 and 23 Intersection.

WIDENING IS PLANNED

Cost of Work To Be Carried by State and National Governments.

State Highway Director O. W. Merrell has placed resurfacing of North Main street in Marion on the 1933 program of the state highway department, it was disclosed today by an official in the highway department.

The street probably will be resurfaced from George street north to the intersection of state route 4 and federal route 23 eight-tenths of a mile north of the corporation limit. Widening of the section from Copeland avenue north to the intersection of the state and federal routes to a width of 30 feet also is assured, and there is a possibility that the section of Main street from George to Fairground streets may be widened, it was reliably reported.

First County Project

The project will be the first one in this county to be financed by federal funds under the gigantic public works program launched several weeks ago by the federal government.

Resurfacing will be done with a black top material, it was learned from the highway department. An estimate of the cost of the work will be made, and bids will be taken immediately afterward in order to start the work as soon as possible, it was announced.

No estimate of the cost of the work could be obtained. Resurfacing of the section from George street to the north corporation line, exclusive of any widening, probably would cost from $30,000 to $33,000, it was roughly estimated this morning by City Service Director E. O. Uncapher. The cost of resurfacing and widening the section from the corporation line northward to the intersection of the routes undoubtedly would push the total cost of the contemplated work to well above $50,000.

It was believed that the entire cost of the improvements would be borne by federal and state highway funds, although a definite statement to that effect could not be obtained.

In the only formal requisition for federal funds under the public works program ever made by the city of Marion, funds were sought for the resurfacing of Main street from George street to the north corporation line, and widening of the street from George street to Fairground streets by a margin of six feet, Director Uncapher said this morning. Council made this formal request and forwarded it to the state highway department several weeks ago, he said. In the same requisition, funds were sought for improvement of Kenton avenue from the Erie tracks to the corporation limit, but no action on this requisition has been reported.

Jobs for Men

Inclusion of the North Main street project in the federal public works program assures jobs for many unemployed men now on the relief lists of the city and county. The public works program requires that a generous percentage of employes on public projects be taken from the relief lists. Local representatives of the highway department already have prepared a list of jobless men on the relief lists who have the largest number of dependents, planning to give those work in preference to those who have only one or two dependents. It was announced [illegible] two weeks ago.

BILLIONS POUR INTO BUSINESS

Government Making Huge Expenditures in Effort to Speed Recovery.

PUBLIC WORK GETS MOST

Two Millions Expected To Get Jobs Before Program is Completed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Aug 29 Dollar by dollar the billions assembled as fuel for the massive Roosevelt recovery machines are moving to their task of pumping energy into American trade and agriculture.

Topping the spending list is the $3,300,000,000 public works program, while the least expensive is the broad bulwark of the plan the NRA, to which went but $225,000 of the $205,000,000 paid out to the treasury since July 1, in emergency outlays

To meet the extraordinary demands for cash, the treasury has on hand daily upward of $1,000,000,000 in ready money—the latest balance showing $1,119,000,000 ready for distribution about the country in recovery efforts as well as meeting the government's ordinary operating costs.

To date the public works administration has allocated $1,212,000,000 for construction, including $238,000,000 for battleships, with at least 2,000,000 persons expected to be put back in jobs before its bulging treasure chest is exhausted.

Figures Indefinite

No one knows just how much of the amount allotted actually has been spent, but these figures now are being collected

Initial work of organizing the public works administration and the other segments of the recovery program has delayed so far any vast outpouring of cash but this task now is virtually completed and the money will roll forth in increasing volume during the next few months.

The national recovery administration, being relied upon by the chief executive and his staff to get most of the millions of unemployed back to work, will cost the least to the government because its expenses are virtually all administrative

The job-giving and pay-raising expense is borne by the industries that come in under the NRA's codes, and the consumers who buy under the blue eagle, keeping to the barest minimum any additional burden on the taxpayer to meet its needs

Hundreds of millions will flow into agriculture from funds collected through the processing taxes and other sources, with the first checks going to cotton growers who plowed under their stalks and buried opening bolls.

Cotton Gets Share

Cotton growers in the next few weeks will get $100,000,000. Wheat farmers who cut down their production, this fall will receive up to $136,000,000 in maximum estimates, but at least from $70,000,000 to $80,000,000 if only seven or eight out of every 10 growers come along.

Since July 1, the agricultural adjustment administration has drawn on the treasury for $6,905,789, largely administrative.

As an aid to the hog raiser, about $52,000,000 will go out for pigs, with $9,000,000 of the total to be paid by the emergency relief administration, which will use the ham and bacon in its relief activities. To date, relief has cost $141,634,549 in grants to the states and territories

Since July 1, the civilian conservation corps has called on the treasury for $40,865,283. Its total expenses are put by officials at 'considerably more than $50,000,000' but most of it went to families of those in camps.

TYPHOID REPORTED IN MARION COUNTY

First Case Follows Mild Epidemic Reported in Nearby Towns.

The first case of typhoid fever in Marion county, outside the city, this year was reported to Dr N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, yesterday by Dr. Milton F. Axtheim of Caledonia.

The patient is Miss Virginia Osborn, 16, of northeastern Marion county, whose illness was diagnosed yesterday by Dr. Axtheim as typhoid fever. Until this case was reported, Marion county had escaped a mild contagion of the disease reported in nearby counties.

Dr. Sifritt today said vaccination is the only sure preventative although persons could reduce danger of contracting the disease by boiling all drinking water, especially when the water is taken from dug wells. He also urged Marion county residents to refrain from bathing in streams.

Identity of Attacker Remains Mystery

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug 29—The embattled citizen who disfigured Senator Huey P. Long in the washroom of a fashionable bath club remained a man of mystery today despite the active curiosity of Long Island society, the police and the "Kingfish" himself.

Guests at a charity party at the Sands Point Bath club, where the Louisiana senator suffered a cut over the left eye Saturday night, weren't saying much.

The senator's version differed sharply from reports published here. In Milwaukee, after declining at first to comment, he issued a statement saying three or four men "ganged" him in the washroom.

The New York Times said the police were investigating on the strength of reports that the Kingfish was struck by a guest who asserted the senator had insulted him. The New York Herald-Tribune said:

"The story going the rounds at Port Washington, L. I., was that the senator had wandered into the washroom, where he brushed against another man. Something passed between them which enraged the other guest, who swung around and smacked the senator"

Chairman Frank Little asserted he felt that the ordinance and franchise committee had done everything possible within its power to bring about reductions in water and gas rates.

Marion Water Co figured in another way in city council affairs last night. City Clerk S H. Keller was authorized to call attention of the company's executives to the excessive hardness of the city water on Aug. 22, when, according to a report made by Floyd G. Browne, city chemist, there were 12.5 grains of hardness per gallon in the city water. The water franchise specifies a maximum hardness of 12 grains.

Assessment Remitted

Council remitted to John F Owings the balance due from him in special assessments for the paving of George street, after determining that he already had paid assessments amounting to more than two-thirds of the value of the property benefitted. He had paid $355.55 on assessments totaling $547, the remitter ordinance stated.

When council received a report from the street and alley committee favoring a petition presented two weeks ago for the resurfacing of Elm street, and at the same time learned that no funds were available for the work, it tabled both the petition and the committee's report. Resurfacing of that street with amiesite from Church street to Mt Vernon avenue would cost $2,000 it was estimated.

COOPERATION URGED BY NRA OFFICIALS

Ohio Headquarters Sounds New Call To Employers and Consumers.

By The Associated Press

The Ohio headquarters of the national recovery administration sounded a new call today for the "cooperation of every employer and consumer" as thousands of citizens in communities throughout the state swung into the drive to put the blue eagle in the window of every home and shop

The NRA headquarters in Cleveland issued an appeal to all employers, declaring that "every industry before long will be covered by its own code which fits conditions in that particular industry.

"Until that time all employers are asked to sign the President's agreement and to meet the hours and wages established in that agreement, which is also called the blanket code Every dollar spent by an employer now will return again a hundred-fold as business flows in from the consuming public, which is once more able to buy."

The first returns began to come in today as scores of cities planned "recovery rallies" and started making tabulations of NRA results in their localities

At Columbus 13 000 persons attended a rally last night to hear NRA speakers Charles P. Taft 2nd, colonel of the Cincinnati NRA unit, reported 7,593 persons have returned to work in that city since July 31 He also announced at a rally that 1 500 volunteer workers had reported an employment increase in Hamilton county of 11 per cent

Lakewood started a drive today to become the first large community to go 100 per cent for the NRA. Mansfield will open its campaign next Monday. Troy will hold a mass meeting tonight.

Agreement Is Made on Coal Code Base

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 29—The NRA worked swiftly today to clinch with a permanent code the basic agreement finally obtained for the coal industry, a victory regarded by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, as one of the most significant advances in the career of the industrial control enterprise.

After skirting the edge of failure for a week, union labor and representatives of the biggest bituminous coal fields of the country, the strictly non-union Applachian area, last night were brought into a compromise which the administration was ready to approve.

Enthusiastic at this outcome, President Roosevelt expressed to Johnson his congratulation in a personal telephone conversation. Today and tomorrow at least were required, in Johnson's estimate to convert the agreement into a binding code.

Retail Code Ahead

This windup on coal left one really big agreement to be concluded—a code to embrace the country's entire retail trade, with its employment of millions of persons. Strenuous efforts continued today to bring the separate codes of the dry goods retailing group and of the druggists into a line that would permit covering every store in the country under one blanket retail agreement.

Success on coal and retail trade codes will leave the NRA with a miscellany of industries, mostly of minor importance to bring within the fold, but with the air cleared of the biggest emergency matters, so that Johnson and his aides may concentrate on the problems developing in administration of the codes. These are multiplying rapidly, with trouble over unionization of industries, and danger signals in mounting prices, leading the way.

A large part of the labor relations question already was assigned to the national labor board, country-wide NRA arbitration unit.

Difficulties Seen

A major source of labor friction, however, was believed by many observers to have been developed through inclusion in the automobile industry's code of a clause intended to maintain the open shop. Many of the industries still unsigned intended to adopt the motor men's formula in an effort to fight unionization, and the handling of this question under intense labor opposition was expected to furnish abundant difficulty for Johnson.

The general was expectant of being able to give a major share of his attention quickly to devising organization within the NRA to keep tab on prices and put a stop to excesses which might nullify the higher wage benefits of the codes

Retail Lumber Dealers of District To Meet

Retail lumber dealers from Marion and seven adjoining counties will meet tonight in Hotel Harding for a discussion of NRA principles as related to their business.

The dealers, 50 of whom are expected to attend, will represent district No. 11 of the Ohio Retail Lumbermen's association. This district comprises Marion, Union, Hardin, Wyandot, Logan, Seneca, Crawford and Morrow counties.

V. W. Peck of Cardington, elected chairman of the district at a meeting here a few weeks ago, will be in charge. Dinner will be served at 6.30 p m. with the business meeting following.

Local members said that final arrangements for accepting the lumber code probably will be made at the meeting. Some revision of the district organization probably will come about, they said, in order to operate more thoroughly under the code.

The code for the lumber trade has not been fully accepted at Washington yet, local dealers said, although a number of the provisions have received approval.

"TERROR ABOARD" ON MARION SCREEN

A good cast which includes John Halliday, Charlie Ruggles, Neil Hamilton, Shirley Grey, Verree Teasdale and Jack LaRue, made "Terror Aboard," the picture that opened a two-day run today at the Marion. Passing Out

(Will Rogers Special)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug 29—I believe that Mr Moley, chief of the "Brain Trusters" getting out is about the starting of the end of college professors in government. A professor gets all of his out of a book, but the politician, as bad as he is does have an understanding of human nature, and the mob.

So we just as well become reconciled to the fact that the old politician is with us, "even unto death."

Theories are great they sound great but the minute you are asked to prove one in actual life why the things blow up

So professors back to the class room idealists back to the drawing room Communists back to the soap box (and use some of it), but old Congressman "Hokum" and old Senator "Hooey" are still the Mussolinis of our country

MARION GIRL GIVES PROGRAM AT WOWO

Miss Dorothy Romoser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Romoser of Forest street, gave a 15-minute organ recital yesterday at 2 p. m. from radio station WOWO in Fort Wayne, Ind. She was asked to return for another program on Wednesday, Sept. 20. Her numbers were "March Militaire," "Andantino in D Flat," "Estrellita," and "Pilgrims' Chorus" from "Tannhauser."

Homemaker's Question Box

Question — How would you advise one to remove grass-stain from a child's pink pique hat?

Answer—If the stain is fresh it may be washed out with hot water and a mild soap. The stain will need to be rubbed vigorously and the soap applied directly. If the hat has not been laundered yet and except for the stain does not need to be washed, sponge the stain with alcohol until it disappears. The alcohol does not need to be chemically pure. It may be denatured or wood alcohol. If you have a bottle of rubbing alcohol in the medicine chest that will be quite satisfactory—just be sure that the alcohol you use is colorless.

Alcohol sometimes affects color. Since the hat to which you refer is such a delicate shade the effect of the alcohol should be tried out on a piece of the lining or the end of the band, if there is one, to determine whether or not it is safe to use it. If the color of the material is not affected in this test it is safe to apply the alcohol to the stain. The alcohol will evaporate quickly and the hat will not need an all-over cleaning.

Colin poured out a glass of wine ... for himself.

Harry said a mouthful," he stated laconically. "That's right, all right."

"Working any racket now?"

"Nope."

"How's funds?"

Colin shrugged his shoulders.

"The last handout I got from Papa Goyette," he grinned philosophically, "is getting down to a thin layer."

"Looking for something?"

"The wadding's out of my ears."

"Okay. Suppose I could let you in on something where your cut would be a grand or maybe more, what would you say?"

"I'd say—Colin's voice held an eager note—that you were kidding."

Benny Malone leaned across the table.

"I'm not kidding if you're there with the guts"—he was speaking more hurriedly than ever, and in an undertone now. "Maybe you'll get a chance to prove whether you've got 'em or not in the next few minutes. Harry spotted you over there, and said you'd keep your face closed anyway. He's in a jam, and we may need help. What do you say? Are you sitting in, or do you want to fade?"

Fade—and lose the promised chance of future intimacy with Benny Malone! Colin was thinking in high. He did not know what this "jam" was that Harry the Lynx was in, or what his, Colin's, participation therein might mean, though he was uncomfortably aware that he did not like the sound of it at all—but there was only one answer.

There was no apparent hesitation in his reply.

"Deal the cards," he said, with a convincingly twisted smile. "I'm sitting in."

"Attaboy!" applauded Harry the Lynx. "I ain't going to forget this, Clarkie, and—"

"Jesse!" interrupted Benny Malone in a fierce whisper. "There he is now and it looks like he's got two or three with him. And he's got you lamped, Harry. Well, here's where Spinelli gets the tip to put the lights out!" He pulled an automatic stealthily from his pocket. "Keep your feet out of the way, Clarkie," he warned—and fired three shots in rapid succession into the floor.

Women's screams, the scraping of chairs as both men and women rose in frantic haste from the tables, and a babel of panicky voices answered the shots.

• • •

AND then almost on the instant, the lights went out.

"Scram, Harry!" snapped Benny Malone. "Spinelli's on the job, all right. Here's your chance. You know the way. Take the first train out of the burg, Clarkie and I'll entertain 'em long enough to let you make your getaway." And then, with a short laugh: "Look out for yourself, Clarkie! Behind you! Stop him—but keep your rod parked!"

It had all happened, it seemed to Colin, in no more time than it had taken him to gain his feet. He whirled around. Someone, a black bulk out of the surrounding darkness, was rushing upon him.

He caught a blur of lighter color—the face. And at that face he whipped out with his right, driving home an uppercut with all his strength behind the blow. But the blow, though it reached its objective, did not stop the impetus of the other's rush, which drove him back against the table, where, losing his balance he fell to the floor, his opponent on top of him.

And then, as he grappled with the other, he felt a gun in the man's hand. But the other did not grapple in return—he was only a dead weight. Colin snatched the gun away and stood up.

It was a lucky knockout, that was all; but—he smiled grimly—the gun was safer, from his standpoint, in his possession than in the other's! One sometimes did not take even the count of 10!

Pandemonium reigned around him, hysterical cries, a bedlam of noise; but he could see a little better now that his eyes had grown accustomed to the darkness. A furious struggle was going on a few feet away—the swaying forms of two men. One of them, of course, was Benny Malone. He could not tell one from the other; but, as he sprang forward in that direction, one of the two forms crashed with a heavy thud to the floor—and then he heard Benny's vicious challenge:

"Who's that?"

"It's all right," Colin answered. "My guy's asleep."

"Good boy!" approved Benny. "I had to plug mine with the butt. I guess there were only two, after all. Come on, beat it! I'll show you the way."

But what the "way" was, Colin never knew—except that there were numerous doors and passages through which he was guided with Benny Malone's hand on his arm until they came out on an alleyway and from there, presently, reached Fifth avenue. And then, turning down a cross street, Benny Malone spoke for the first time as he slowed his pace to a leisurely stroll.

"That was a swell piece of work you did tonight, kid," he said enthusiastically. "And, take it from me, you ain't going to lose by it."

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Wonders if Edith Fairfax Has Renewed Her Long Fight for Dicky's Love.

I HAVE KNOWN the time, and that not very far from the present day, when overhearing Edith Fairfax propose to my husband a moonlight trip to the ocean would have caused me much mental anguish, and kept me busy trying not to betray my jealousy.

But my reaction to the proposition she had just voiced was a curious one. I felt no spark of jealousy, whatever, but I did feel an infinite weariness as, with my memory flashing back over the kaleidoscopic years, I found myself comparing Edith's long campaign to win Dicky from me with that which Avis Arlen had been waging against Mary.

Was history repeating itself? I asked myself. Was Mary to be compelled to face the heartache, the disillusionment, the jealousy that had been mine? Grace Draper, Bess Dean, Edith Fairfax, the mysterious "Floss," who as yet was only a voice over a telephone to me, whatever she was to Dicky—they passed in rapid review before my brain, and then gave way to the Princess Olina and Avis Arlen, the two girls who had disputed Mary's claim to Noel.

Dicky's Affairs

Life—married life—must be cut to one pattern, I thought drearily. There was no safeguard in marriage for a woman whose husband was handsome and mentally alert enough to be attractive to other women. I had discovered that in the first year of my marriage when Grace Draper first began her war against my married happiness—a war which, indeed, had included a deliberate attempt to murder me. But Mary, my husband's lovely young niece whom I loved as I might a daughter of my own, I shrank as I might from a blow at the thought of her facing the same unhappy moments which had been mine.

I shook myself back to sanity with a little startled jerk. As usual, I told myself with stern self-flagellation, I had been indulging my imagination. True the attempt of other women to win my husband from me were not figments of my imagination, but I knew that much of the misery resulting to me from those attempts were caused by my own mistaken mental reaction to them.

Dicky never has been really untrue to me. I am as firmly convinced of that as I am of the love of my small son without which I should not care to live. And I am sure that if I could have substituted tolerant amusements at the philanderings of my Peter Pan—who never will grow up, romantically I am persuaded of that now—for the jealousy which has so often been mine, I could have been much happier and made my husband happier.

Not that I have given Dicky much cause to call me "jealous." That has been one of the strongest aims of my married life—to keep him from suspecting how his attentions to other women or, to do him justice his reactions to the pursuit of other women, have affected me. But in order to conceal my jealousy effectively, I often have been compelled to pretend an indifference, a boredom, which, while it may have kept him interested, has also, I know, sometimes irritated him almost to frenzy.

It's Up to Madge

Would Mary employ those tactics, I wondered with sudden panic. Noel was of such different temperament from Dicky that I trembled for the success of her marriage if she took a leaf from my book. Far more sensitive than Dicky, and without my Peter Pan's gorgeous sense of humor, he would be frantic with pain if he should suspect that Mary were indifferent to him or bored.

I put an iron hand upon my imaginings and came back to earth at the sound of Dicky's voice—he either had not heard Edith at first or had pretended deafness. Mary's problems could wait, I told myself. She and Noel were safely away, beyond the reach of any outside influence. I would turn my attention upon my own troubles, for though I no longer felt jealousy of Edith, her attitude toward Dicky still constituted a distinct problem in my life.

"Did you hear me, Dicky?" Edith had just asked, with all the sharpness of a shrewish spouse many years married, and Dicky had started, as might a suddenly spurred horse.

"Yes, yes, old dear," he said, with a lightness which I knew was forced. "I heard you the first time. I've just been trying to decide whether I wish to leave the comfortable home fireside for a drive to the ocean even on this heavenly night. Let's leave it to my faithful spouse. After all, she's the most fatigued of any one of us. What say, Madge? Do you want to go cavorting out into the moonlight? If so, it's all right by me, baby, although privately I shall dub you a colossal idiot."

The Convenience Of Gas Heat!

But Many Advantages Of Gas Heat Do Have A Definite Value

In a recent survey many housewives were asked what it would be worth to them to be relieved of the constant annoyance of caring for a furnace; of experiencing up-and-down temperatures; of continually cleaning soot, ashes, smoke and furnace dirt from draperies, upholstery, rugs, walls, woodwork and clothing. These women expressed the thought that such convenience cannot be measured in dollars, though they certainly would be willing to pay more for it.

Gas Heat Costs No More

Heating with gas dispenses entirely with these trying annoyances, and gas really costs no more than other fuels if you consider the savings on incidental expenses.

Using gas heat means less money spent for cleaning or redecorating home furnishings, walls and clothing—soiled by dirt from the furnace; less money spent for storing fuel, tending the furnace and removing ashes; and less money spent for medical expense to treat colds and other winter ills resulting from uneven temperatures. These items belong in the heating bill, and families which place them there find that gas for heating costs no more than other fuels.

These, and other heating facts are available to you through our heating engineers. Ask us how you can—Janitrol (a complete gas-fired heating unit) installed in your present furnace, responds automatically to the temperature you select on the convenient, thermostat control. Our attractive terms will suit your budget.

Hands Off!

The trade pact agreed to in principle by Premier Mussolini of Italy and Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria can mean only one thing to Adolf Hitler's ambitious Nazis. To them it says clearly, "Hands off Austria!"

The pact may or may not be signed in its present form. That is a secondary move of commercial importance. Its primary effect is to halt Nazi attempts to control Austria, which is of intense political importance.

From this time forward Nazi activities in Austria for the purpose of combining that struggling government's territory with Germany will be construed as defiance to the government of Benito Mussolini. A pretty problem in diplomacy thereby is created for a party in Germany which may encounter its most serious difficulty in international relationships.

It will not be easy for Chancellor Hitler to save his face. He has gained prestige by feeding his converts the red, raw meat of militaristic demagoguery. It is going to be difficult for him to admit that the man whom he has taken as a model dictator has ordered him to let Austria alone.

Perhaps Germany's well controlled press can handle the matter in such a way as to take the sting out of the incident. It is assured, however, that the press of other countries will not spare Herr Hitler. He will be given the choice of an expedient withdrawal or a gravely dangerous continuance of Nazi efforts to gain control of Austria.

It seems probable that Premier Mussolini's position is too strong to be assailed successfully by Germany. Austria, of course, has no choice but to go along with Italy. The alternative is continuance of a desperate struggle to maintain an independent government in the face of Nazi opposition. Premier Mussolini has good reasons to maintain Austrian independence—reasons so good that they make it possible for him to promise Austria a spectacularly generous program of assistance.

A $35 Standard.

In a statement at the close of last week Administrator Johnson frankly admitted that Americans making $35 a week and more would have to be satisfied with a seat at the second table in whatever pay increases NRA produces. The recovery administration is making no plans to increase their incomes, although it hopes that increases will develop if the recovery plan is successful.

Inferentially, this policy establishes $35 a week as the income necessary to maintain a decent standard of living. Workers making less than that amount are assumed to be deserving of more money. Workers making more, though it be only a dollar or two, are assumed to be provided for adequately, for the present at least. In other words, it is not necessary to make horizontal increases in wage levels to produce more buying power.

The policy is debatable and its potential consequences will be viewed apprehensively in many quarters. The probable effect will be to "freeze" wage levels above the $35 standard while employers meet their NRA obligations to workers whose incomes are below the standard. The $35 standard takes in a great many of the white-collar class, perennial "goats" of all monetary manipulation.

They do not begrudge whatever increases their low-pay brothers are able to salvage from operation of the recovery plan. They have a right, however, to question the effectiveness of a policy to increase buying power which tacitly encourages employers to preserve a static condition in wages above $35 a week. Persons accustomed to that income inevitably will feel the pinch of rising prices. Once more it seems destined to be the middle class citizen who is making enough to get along if let alone that will carry the hod.

Umpteenth Warning.

After the fashion of an indulgent parent disciplining a child who has learned not to fear the consequences, the federal government has warned gold hoarders that action is going to be taken after a "final check" has been made. The formula is the same employed earlier in August, several times during July and a good many times before then.

In the meantime one is able to gather from the somewhat confused data accompanying the warnings that the amount of gold being held by recalcitrant hoarders is increasing. Estimates run as high as half a billion dollars' worth, although at one time the amount was supposed to have been down in the neighborhood of a million dollars' worth.

The ordinary man who rushed to the bank to turn in his gold last April can do no more than guess at the mysterious process of public discipline which has produced so many warnings without any action. It is known with reasonable certainty that the department of justice is not anxious to entangle itself in a test case, which assuredly would be taken to the supreme court. Further than that, no one knows what the matter is about.

Had well enough been let alone, it would have appeared that those who turned in their gold on request were merely the good patriots that everyone acknowledged they were at the time. They would have been given credit and those who refused to comply with the request would have been given the blame. However, in the federal government's subsequent manner there is more than a hint of intention to make everyone measure up under the yardstick—intention without power to make it effective, apparently.

The gold hoarding difficulty is a minor phase of the Roosevelt administration. Unfortunately, however, it is a minor phase which has emphasized out of all proportion by repeated warnings to hoarders. The people are being made uncomfortable by witnessing a process of disciplining which never gets past the point of shouting at the offender

Not On Vacation.

From Greece, Samuel Insull comments that he hasn't been informed of attempts being made by his countrymen to bring him home. It might surprise him to know how eagerly that homecoming is awaited.

The exiled utilities magnate has made of himself a symbol of social struggle. Like another well known Chicago resident, Al Capone, he has set himself up in defiance of the people.

The federal government, after state and local government had failed, succeeded in proving to Capone that he was not invulnerable. For the offense of failing to render unto Washington that which belonged to Washington, Capone was sent to a federal prison.

It makes a strained comparison, but dollar for dollar Insull's offense against the people and their government was as great as Capone's. Perhaps the financier did not mislead investors deliberately, perhaps he was only a natural product of an era wherein people almost begged to be mulcted, but the fact is that suspicions of fraud are not groundless. The federal government has applied formally for Insull's extradition based on an indictment charging him and certain associates with violating the federal bankruptcy law by transferring assets of a corporation in anticipation of its collapse.

The American people might have found sympathy for Insull as a man who erred, but it has nothing but anger to greet the man who ran away from the showdown. Money and influence made it possible for him to remain in Greece while the state of Illinois tried vainly to bring him home for trial on charges growing out of the collapse of his utilities empire. Deliberately, he has demonstrated to the people whose money his companies absorbed that he does not intend to be held for an accounting.

It is a direct challenge to governmental power. The public's sense of fair play demands that Samuel Insull be made to face the music like any man who is suspected of having done a wrong. While he remains at large, there will be a conviction that justice is only for the helpless.

Pigskin Fever.

Diagnosticians of the national temper reached the conclusion that the people are ready for another football season last week. For an all-star game at Chicago 60,000 people turned out to jam themselves into the stands. They cheered, they despaired, they found comfort in bottles and jostled each other merrily. They were a typical football crowd, in August.

It will be a matter of several weeks before any great number of teams are ready to occupy sports pages. But already hopeful candidates are flipping passes and living that sometimes grotesquely artificial life which is supposed to be essential for "getting into condition." It looks like a great season was coming up, with not a thing in sight to mar it.

Football rules are settling down. It will be possible this fall for a player who learned the rules last fall to get along without a rule book tucked away somewhere in his padding. Excitement over the dangers of football is abating, moreover. Chronic fretters are out of the habit of showing how the game is corrupting youth and taking a greedy share of human life.

From the business manager's viewpoint, too, the prospect is rosy. Unless something unforeseen occurs, attendance should be greater this fall than it was last fall, even though it continues to sulk some tens of thousands below the swollen turnouts of football's era of bubble expansion. Success at the gate, despite the reluctance of idealists to recognize the connection, frequently means success on the field.

It Worked.

Typical of many comments on the uses of scrip during the recent days of the banking emergency is the comment of an East Cleveland citizen when the last certificate was received for redemption recently. "It has brought business to merchants and nobody has been out anything. We think it was a good idea."

Paradoxically, scrip seems to demonstrate both the worth and worthlessness of national currency. Its successful employment shows that the real value of currency depends on faith in the future of business. Conditions which lead to the necessity of employing it inevitably show how much depends on the maintenance of a solid monetary system

Americans can consider themselves fortunate that they were able this year and several times before in their history to fall back on a substitute medium of exchange with a minimum of confusion. Scrip worked because they believed it would work and because it had to work. It is a valuable ace-in-the-whole for emergencies.

There exists, however, too little definite knowledge concerning its employment. It is recalled that when the necessity for resorting to it came up last spring there was a period of confusion while various systems were studied. There were numerous ideas, almost as many, in fact, as there were people interested in scrip.

It would seem to be practical for a study to be made of various experiences during the recent emergency, for the purpose of showing the most practical methods of placing scrip in circulation and redeeming it. Emergencies which have called for its use have been so far apart that knowledge necessarily is spotty and incomplete. It should be possible before another collapse, if there is to be another, to know definitely which are the best systems and how to place them in operation with a minimum of delay.

Comment of the Press

MAKING BAD MEN FEEL BAD.

They're doing things in a big way in Chicago—setting examples for other crime-infested communities to follow. Justice is behaving in a manner to frighten criminal lawyers. Asking for a change of venue is becoming common.

A specific example of quick action was the conviction of a man who killed a policeman so recently that the crime was scarcely out of the news. The jury lost no time in reaching a verdict and was congratulated by the judge who, in turn, made use of less time in fixing the death penalty and setting the date of the execution.

Following the verdict the condemned man, asked how he felt, replied: "I feel bad inside."

The Chicago war against crime began three weeks ago. Since then many other offenders have been made to "feel bad inside." The record shows 195 penitentiary and one death sentence inflicted.

Daily Guide to Health

Heartburn Wrongly Diagnosed.

Scarcely a day passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information about heartburn. As a rule, the writer complains of stomach symptoms yet fears he has heart disease because of the persistent and annoying discomfort in the heart region. Many persons think, too, that heartburn is a sign of heart disease. This is a foolish fear. Heartburn is almost invariably due to indigestion.

"Heartburn" is the name given that peculiar burning sensation felt in the pit of the stomach, or in the area around the heart. There is burning in the throat, too. There is no actual pain but the sensation is distressing. It is usually the result of gas formation in the stomach, with distension and pressure of the stomach against the heart.

It is a signal that should not be ignored. It may be the result of overeating, or of too rapid eating. It is commonly seen in men and women who rush through their meals, bolt their food and fail to chew it properly.

Few persons realize that the saliva contains one of the most important digestive substances of the body. When the food is slowly chewed and thoroughly masticated before swallowing, it mixes with the digestive "ferment" or "enzyme" found in the salivary juices. This prepares the food for further digestion in the stomach.

It will be readily seen that when food is hastily swallowed it reaches the stomach in an improperly prepared state. It is not ready for stomach digestion. This places an additional burden on the stomach and leads to an increase in the acidity of the stomach juice. This condition gives rise to many distressing symptoms commonly associated with heartburn.

"Indigestion" is a word, vague in its meaning and used to cover a multitude of disturbances. Many of the symptoms of digestive failure are described in remarkably indefinite language. I have in mind the common use of such terms as "gastritis," "inflammation of the stomach," "acid stomach," as well as heartburn. These are often incorrectly used by the sufferer.

If you have frequent attacks of heartburn or other stomach distress I advise that you seek medical advice at once. Follow the treatment prescribed by your physician. Above all, keep away from patent medicines and home remedies.

Chew your food slowly and carefully. When in a hurry remember that a glass of milk with a piece of toast, is more beneficial than a large meal hastily swallowed.

It is a grave mistake to neglect heartburn. There is always the danger that it is due to some serious disturbance of the stomach. More likely it is a simple thing and will be speedily relieved.

HOW DEFIANCE GOT ITS NAME.

The county of Defiance got its name from the town of Defiance, and the town got its name from the fort that occupied its original site—Fort Defiance. And the Fort was given that name by General Wayne under whose direction it was constructed, though it was suggested by a companion officer—General Charles Scott, who had distinguished himself in service with Wayne in the Revolution, and was in 1808 the governor of Kentucky.

Fort Defiance was built as a preliminary to the Wayne campaign against the Indians, culminating in their defeat at the battle of Fallen Timbers, Aug. 20, 1794. The fort was built in eight days but General Wayne was confident of its strength. He remarked, "I defy the English, Indians and all the devils in hell to take it." Then, General Scott standing beside him remarked, "why not call it Fort Defiance?" The suggestion found favor and two days later, when General Wayne reported by letter to the secretary of war, he recounted the building of the stockade at the junction of the Auglaize and Maumee rivers, "which I have called Defiance."

Daily Talk to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH.

GRACIOUSNESS.

The use of good manners has a tremendous effect on the child's approach to the world about him. The child who is gracious is naturally more popular than the child who is brusque in manner.

It is true that graciousness is in part at least a gift, at times amounting almost to a special genius, and the owner of it, whether young or old, has an open sesame to the hearts of all with whom he comes in contact.

But even native tact can be refined, and often where it seems to be absent it is to some extent existent, and needs only care and cultivation for its development.

Children learn best by imitation, and the greatest social ease is gained by those who have lived with it day by day and unconsciously absorbed it from those about them.

Parents who ask rather than demand, who consider the convenience of others, who use the little refinements of breeding in their home life and toward their children and each other, find the training of their children in social behavior comparatively simple.

It is during the unconscious years of early childhood, even during babyhood that the most solid foundations are laid. The tiniest child may have implanted in him the basis of the whole social code without his ever realizing it.

For good manners are founded on consideration for others, and this principle never changes in any time or place. No matter what local usage may have to be grafted on in later years, the fundamental growth will be sound and need no changing.

And unquestionably the child's path will be smoother for the little extra effort thus entailed. He will be at home wherever he goes.

A pants-making firm at Corinth, Miss., has received its biggest orders: for a pair of pants 72 inches waist measure and 31 inches long.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

EDWARD F. McGRADY

Washington, Aug 29—One of the most fascinating things to watch in Washington these days is the transformation in personnel the government has undergone since the new administration came along.

The advent of the so-called "brain trust" on the scene in the capital is only one example. In almost every phase of governmental activity equally as shining examples may be seen.

It is a familiar story of how a certain gentleman, representing one of the country's great industries, came down to Washington to attend a code hearing at the NRA with the avowed intention of teaching General Johnson a lesson.

The general heard him for a little while, then turned to him and said that he was in need of just such a man to work for him and the Blue Eagle.

That man today is one of the hardest working individuals in the recovery administration.

• • •

But perhaps one of the most appropriate illustrations of this sort of thing is to be found in the man whom President Roosevelt has just appointed assistant secretary of labor—Edward F. McGrady.

It was only a comparatively few years ago that McGrady, as a representative of the American Federation of Labor, was endeavoring to recruit workers in various industries as members of the federation His work carried him into a town down south, among cotton textile workers.

One night, a group of citizens of the town, indignant at his activity among the workers, invaded his hotel, kidnaped him and drove him out.

• • •

Only recently this same man stood on a platform at Uniontown, Pa., surrounded by a large group of striking coal miners, and shouted to them:

"I represent the President of the United States, and in the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt I ask that you return to work—"

So effective was his appeal that the strikers voted unanimously to return to the coal mines.

• • •

McGrady had been called in early by General Johnson to act as labor advisor for the recovery administration. Previously he had served as legislative representative for the American Federation of Labor.

It wasn't long before he was known as the general's "trouble shooter" in labor difficulties. He was dispatched to scenes of trouble, usually by air plane, when they arose, and more often than not returned with a victory.

Like General Johnson, he speaks in that direct, forceful language that everyone understands. And his right to carry a union card goes back to his days as foreman of the pressroom on a Boston newspaper.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 29—Very few writers of note live in New York any more. Time was when the most distinguished resided in Greenwich Village or Washington Square. It was believed a close contact with editors and publishers was necessary. This has proved a fallacy.

O. O. McIntyre

Top-notch novelists and magazine writers come to town once a year but usually to catch a steamer for Europe. Often they do not even call at the editorial rooms. Nearly all have their literary agents transact their affairs by mail and telegraph.

Any number, including Hemingway and Louis Bromfield, reside in Europe. Scores live on the Pacific coast—more indeed than on the Atlantic. A few live in Boston environs, notably Ben Ames Williams. Harold Bell Wright in Tucson may not come East for three years at a stretch.

Gouverneur Morris sold fiction steadily for years from Tahiti and there is, of course, Pearl Buck's amazing success from far away China. Vicki Baum did well by herself from Germany for a long time. Editors have scouts who rush to those who can deliver the goods wherever they are.

Expert chefs rarely smoke because of the fear of dulling their highly sensitized taste. Oscar of the Waldorf was no exception until three years ago—his 64th year—he began smoking a pipe. His interest became so keen his collection of pipes is now regarded as the finest in the world.

• • •

Incidentally, Lucius Boomer, director of the Waldorf is, next to Dr. John Finley of the Times, the town's most indefatigible walker. It was not unusual for him to walk from the old Waldorf to Mt. Vernon. George M. Cohan is the most tireless stroller of the theater, averaging at least six miles daily.

The most spectacular of the rural speakeasies, masquerading as a "country club," has been running full tilt two months near picturesque hills of Mt. Kisco in Westchester. The proprietors are also pilots of Manhattan's most pretentious hideaway. The "speak" was originally a half million dollar manor moved stone by stone from an English Tudor estate. There are terraces, formal gardens, swimming pools, dance floors, four restaurants and a tremendous car so enormous is the patronage, especially on Saturday nights, that necessary to keep eight State Troopers on duty until 6 a. m. to control traffic.

Letters from Our Readers

REMINISCING.

Editor Star: Do you remember when—

Marion had plank sidewalks? No paved streets?

When the town was "lighted" by gas lamps on the street corners? These lamps on iron posts were lit each evening and extinguished in the morning by the "Lamplighters" who carried a small ladder to enable him to reach the light, and also to wipe the glass enclosing it.

When the school kids cut corners across the intersection of Main and Center streets and kicked the dust as high as their heads?

When we ran into one store after another begging picture cards for our "scrap books" and how proudly we carried our new "autograph albums" to school to have teacher write a verse and her autograph—to be followed by various rhymes and jingles by our schoolmates—"Roses red—violets blue"—etc.

When Church street was South street, State was East street and Columbia was Canal street?

When our mothers sent us to the gas house to inhale the fumes as a preventive of "whooping cough?"

Did you ever sail boats (empty spool boxes, etc.) in "Goose creek" where it ran between the Stengle and Henry Ackerman properties and under the bridge that crossed South Main street just below Canal street? If not, you missed something. F. W. C.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, Aug. 29, 1923.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania prepared a proposal for submission to miners and operators which he hoped would avert a threatened strike in the anthracite area.

About 150 members of the Marion Country club with their families, attended the club's annual picnic and outing. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Evans won the mixed handicap golf tournament. Hosts for the dance held in connection with the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Mezger, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Mapes, Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Rice, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Young, T. M. Cunningham, J. W. Nelson and H. R. Adams.

The West Ohio Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, holding its annual session at Epworth M. E. church here, voted to request the general conference to return Bishop William F. Anderson to the Cincinnati area.

Buckeye Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, elected P. H. Neidig treasurer and George Lehner trustee, to fill vacancies caused by resignations.

HAUSER STILL HOPES TO SHATTER RECORD

Miller Star Has 12 Games Left in Which To Break Homer Mark.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—Joe Hauser still has plenty of time in which to better his own record of 63 home runs in a single season, but his hope of making it an even 70 appeared remote today.

The Minneapolis slugger hit his 62nd round trip blow Saturday, but failed to get one out of the lot Sunday or yesterday. He still has 12 regularly scheduled games to beat his 63, but will have to mistreat opposition pitching at a great rate to get his 70.

The Millers yesterday bunched their hits off Paul Gregory in the fourth and fifth innings to defeat Milwaukee, 6 to 3.

After holding Toledo scoreless for six innings, Jack Tising bogged down in the seventh and the Mud Hens defeated Indianapolis, 6 to 3, in a night game.

The Louisville Colonels stepped out of the ranks of association ball last night to meet the Dayton, O., mid-Atlantic nine, and took a 5 to 3 licking. The rest of the league had an off day.

LEADING MARKSMEN IN SHOOTING TESTS

National Small Bore Matches Under Way at Camp Perry.

By The Associated Press

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 29—Leading marksmen of the United States trained their rifles on the targets today in the opening round of the national small bore matches.

The Camp Perry individual match and the Ohio Rifle and Pistol association's 100-yard event were the first sharpshooting trials in the national program, which will continue until Labor day.

Scott Romig of Uhrichsville, O., turned in the best targets in one of the three preliminary matches yesterday and took the major Lee O. Wright cup on points acquired in five events of the early program.

G. F. Petersimes of Detroit shared the spotlight by winning the other two events on yesterday's program. Romig's 97 out of 100, with ten shots for record on each of the 600 and 1,000 yard stages won the marine corps cup. D. R. Maxwell of Columbus, O., was second with 96.

Petersimes captured the Leech cup, defeating 25 competitors on the 800, 900 and 9,000 yard ranges, with seven shots at each stage for record.

LARKINS DECLINES

Ohio State Coach Refuses Post at Kent State.

By The Associated Press

KENT, O., Aug. 29—A "change of heart" led Richard Larkins to decline an appointment as head coach of athletics at Kent state college so that he might continue under the scarlet and gray of Ohio State university.

The 25-year-old member of Ohio State's coaching staff—"Dick" to his teammates when he played football and basketball there—last night sent a telegram to Dr. J. O. Engleman, Kent president, saying he had decided not to accept the post offered him.

"I believe my opportunities at Ohio States are greater than they would be at Kent," he said at his home in Wellsville, "And it is late in the season for a change. I regret the decision was necessary."

LOTT AND STOEFEN LEAD NET TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29—Leading by a set, George Lott and Lester Stoefen, today appeared unbeatable as they prepared to resume their national doubles tennis semi-final play against the dangerous Australians, Adrian K. Quist and Don Turnbull, at Longwood.

These teams started play late yesterday, after Frank X. Shields and Frankie Parker had registered their surprising victory over the defending champions, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill and a murky sky, the herald for a heavy thunder-storm, soon forced them to suspend play because of the poor visibility.

When the international rivals halted, the American pair had the first set at 6-4 and were trailing one service game to two in the second.

TOO MUCH REFEREE, VANGLER TOSSED BY PERSIAN SHEIK AGAIN

Official Stumbles, Gets There Too Late To Give Victory To West Virginian.

Sammy Vangler seems to be having referee trouble—that highly dreaded disease which inflicts wrestlers.

Today Sammy is singing the blues after a capacity Steam Shovel gym crowd saw him lose his second match in a row to Sheik Mar Allah, the son of Persia.

It was the second time Sammy was the victim of circumstances—or perhaps it was the gods of luck turning against him. Last week he was crushed under a falling referee to lose the deciding fall and last night a referee stumbled over the ropes in his haste to get to the place where Sammy apparently had his opponent's shoulders firmly pressed to the floor.

The entire card had the fans in an uproar from the first minute of the preliminary to the last minute of the main event. The uproar, in fact, continued until the main-go wrestlers were escorted to the dressing rooms by police.

Surprises Sammy

The Sheik surprised Sammy out of his wits to take the first fall in just a minute. As the opening bell rang, the Sheik rushed Sammy as the latter faced the corner post. Vangler turned around in time to be on the receiving end of a series of punches on the jaw. The slugging was followed by a series of slams and it was just a few moments until Sammy was pinned to the mat.

Sammy thought a lot about the Sheik's tactics during the 10-minute rest period and was ready when the second fall got under way. Figuring that such successful strategy was worth another try, the Sheik rushed Vangler—but the latter was ready. A kick to the face halted the headlong rush.

From then on it was just hectic scrambling. The boys were told to go to it with the referee standing outside the ropes ready to jump inside only if a fall seemed near or to prevent the strangle hold and low blows from being used.

After plenty of slugging, hair-pulling and what have you, Vangler evened the match with a crotch slam. Then the final fall began. Starting out with long range slugging, Sammy attempted to end the match in six minutes when he slammed the Sheik to the mat. But the referee fell and before he could get to his feet the Sheik had reversed the hold and was declared victorious.

Semi-Final Fast

In a bout that almost overshadowed the main event, Charley Carr of Little Rock, La., and Jack Hagan of Jackson, Miss., battled to a draw in 45 minutes with each winning a fall.

Carr was at his roughest and both boys were throwing plenty of fists. Carr won the first fall in 25 minutes with a series of slams. Hagan won the second after he became maddened by Carr's roughness. Hagan opened up with a demonstration of slugging and a series of hiplocks, battering Carr's shoulders to the mats in 14 minutes.

In the preliminary Jerry Miller of Marion was awarded the decision in a handicap match with Lefty Baker of Indiana. Baker, who carried a 15-pound weight advantage was unable to pin Miller in the 20 minutes.

CAREY SEMI-PROS LOSE BY SHUTOUT

Playing a ragged game in the field and displaying a marked inability to hit the offerings of the Columbus twirlers, the Carey Semi-Pros lost a one-sided game to the Columbus Travelers Sunday afternoon at Carey, 6-0. The losers committed four errors, several of them at critical moments.

Batteries and score by innings:
Columbus ... 2 1 0 0 0 2 0 1—6 11 2
Carey ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 4
Columbus, Byrd and Humphries; Carey, C. Keckler and L. Keckler.

MARION A. C. DROPS 7-3 SOFTBALL TILT

The Marion A. C. softball team dropped a 7-3 decision to Caldwell's Oakland Heights team yesterday on the Steam Shovel diamond. The A. C. team will play the Marion Red Birds at Central Wednesday and the East End Cubs Friday at the same place.

Batteries and score by innings:

Caldwell ... 3 0 1 1 0 0 0 x—5 12 2

RECORD FIELD WILL ENTER TURF CLASSIC

By The Associated Press

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 29—The wide-open battle for the turf's two-year-old championship probably will be reflected in a close to record field for the twenty-ninth running of the Hopeful stakes Saturday.

Indications now are that in the event of fair weather at least a score of colts and fillies will face the starter for the six and one-half furlong dash. The race will gross more than $45,000.

Among the leading eligibles are C. V. Whitney's Roustabout, surprise winner of the Grand Union hotel stakes last week; the Calumet farm's Hadagal; the Brookmeade stable's High Quest and Cavalcade; the Greentree stable's Spy Hill, First Minstrel and perhaps Black Buddy; Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood and Blue for Boys; E. R. Bradley's Blue Again and Bazaar; the Sagamore stable's Red Wagon and A. C. Schwartz's Spill Beauty.

OHIO TEAM SEEKS U. S. SOFTBALL TOGA

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 29—With the original entry list of 44 teams reduced to 12, the world series of softball advanced to the third round today.

Only four out of state teams remained in the running following yesterday's eight-game eliminations. These included the two strong Florida squads, one from St. Petersburg and the other from Clearwater. The Alliance, O., Trail Ends and the Minneapolis Sathers. Alliance meets St. Petersburg today. Yesterday the Trail Ends took the Square Deals 12 to 5.

BRITON FAVORITE IN WOMENS GOLF MEET

By The Associated Press

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 29—Not in 20 year has a foreign invader captured the American women's national golf championship, but over the rolling hills of Exmoor today strode England's queen of the fairways, Miss Enid Wilson, to offer a challenge that threatened to crush her opposing field.

Carrying on from Gleneagles, Scotland, where she became one of England's immortals of golf, Miss Wilson opened fire on the American crown yesterday by levelling the Exmoor layout with a 78, the lowest qualifying score in 37 years of play in the big show of American women's golf, and winning the medal with two shots to spare over such contenders as Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, the defending title-holder; Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J., and Helen Hicks of New York, champion in 1931.

CARDINAL RALLY IN NINTH TOPS GIANTS; BRAVES ALSO LOSE

O'Farrell Hits Two Homers for St. Louis; Detroit Wallops Yanks.

There must be something in the make-up of a ball player that sets him afire with vengeance, when he stalks back into the home grounds of a former employer who once tied the tinware to him.

John J. McGraw had one embarrassing experience of the kind that stands out above all others. Now it's the turn of McGraw's successor at the helm of the Giants, Bill Terry, to see the chickens come home to roost beating their wings like eagles.

With McGraw it was the case of George Washington Harper, now an oil well salesman in Texas, but then a journeyman outfielder, who was sent to the Cardinals in 1928 and bounced right back to hit three home runs in one crucial game at the Polo grounds and knock the Giants out of that pennant fight.

With Terry it's ancient Bob O'Farrell, also of the Cardinals, who was sent away last fall. Yesterday at the Polo grounds the old fellow roused himself and hit two home runs, the last one touching off a seven-run barrage that snowed the Giants under 12 to 8, brought their third straight defeat with one tie in the last four games, and completely upset Terry's pitching staff. They blasted two of Terry's best pitchers, Bud Parmalee and Hal Schumacher, and wound up thumping Lefty Watson Clark, who was being held in reserve as a starter in the double header crisis.

It took Tex Carleton, Dizzy Vance, and finally Dizzy Dean to win for the Cards.

The Giants remained six games in front of the Boston Braves who ran into Red Lucas on one of his best days and were shut out 2 to 0. Lucas allowed but two hits in a duel with Lefty Brandt.

Despite their victory, the Cards dropped into a fourth place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates who took two games from Philadelphia, 9 to 5, and 8 to 1.

Only two games were played in the American league. The Athletics rallied in the last three innings with eight runs to beat Chicago 8 to 5 while Vic Sorrell tossed four-hit ball to beat the Yankees 6 to 1.

OH, MR GUMP- WHEN I THINK OF THE NARROW ESCAPE WE HAD, I STILL SHUDDER— THAT DREADFUL MAN'S FACE HAUNTS ME- THE SHIFTY LOOK IN HIS EYE, AND THE WAY HE LIED TO US- I MISTRUSTED THAT IMPOSTER FROM THE MINUTE I FIRST LAID EYES ON HIM- YOU CAN ASK MILLIE IF I DIDN'T-
HE WAS A SCOUNDREL MRS DE STROSS-
WE CAN THANK OUR LUCKY STARS TO HAVE HAD A FRIEND LIKE YOU MR GUMP- I DON'T KNOW HOW WE CAN EVER THINK TO REPAY YOU-
I COULD ASK FOR NO BETTER REPAYMENT IN ALL THE WORLD, MRS DE STROSS, THAN A QUIET WALK IN THE PARK WITH MILLIE-
JUST A COUPLE OF LITTLE LOVE BIRDS- TWO CHILDREN- THERE NEVER WAS A BETTER-MATED PAIR- I ALWAYS DID SAY THAT WAS THE MAN FOR MY MILLIE- WHAT A PITY THAT ANYTHING EVER CAME BETWEEN THEM-
OH, MR GUMP- YOU'RE SO WONDERFUL-

SALES WAVE CAUSES DROP

Big Board Shares Start Higher but Later Drop Downward.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—Stocks and stocks started the day in an optimistic frame of mind, but a rather heavy selling flurry shortly after noon brought nervous and reactionary tendencies.

Although rail and utility equities displayed some resistance, many leading shares were off 1 to 3 or more points before support arrived for the retreating forces. The sharp sell-off was attributed largely to professional operations based on a drop in international dollar rates and softness of grain prices. Cotton was hesitant and bonds mixed. At the height of the decline in stocks the ticker tape was about five minutes behind the transactions. The proceedings quieted down, however, after about half an hour.

Alcohol issues off 1 to more than 3 included National Distillers Hensley American Commercial Alcohol U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Commercial Solvents. Allied Chemical slumped about 5 points and U. S. Smelting was down around 3. Santa Fe was up a point and Baltimore & Ohio was slightly higher. American Telephone Case, U. S. Steel Westinghouse, Chrysler, General Motors, Western Union and others were down 1 to around 2. Consolidated Gas and North American were fairly steady.

Followers of the carriers were cheered by the reports of the first 58 railroads for July which disclosed a combined increase in net operating income of 424.8 per cent over the 1932 month and 61 per cent ahead of last June. That drastic economies were partly responsible for the increased net is shown by the fact that gross earnings of these lines were up 22 per cent above July last year.

WHEAT PRICES SLIDE LOWER

Liquidation Develops in Late Trading, Causing Major Downturn.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 29—Liquidation developed in grains late today and pushed wheat prices down five cents a bushel, the maximum permitted in a day, with all other cereals off sharply.

Announcement that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had tentatively ordered the 1934 wheat acreage reduced 15 per cent resulted in a small upturn at the start, but the gain was erased quickly. Nothing in the routine news accounted for the decline and it was generally attributed to a desire by brokers to unload September wheat contracts before Friday when deliveries may be made for the first time. Offers found few takers. Corn was weak from the start because of similar liquidation. Other grains followed wheat.

Wheat rallied somewhat near the close as support developed from cash interests and resting orders to buy on all recessions.

At the close, wheat was weak and 3¼ to 3¾ cents below yesterday's finish.

Corn was also weak and 2½ to 2¾ off.

Oats 1 to 1¾ down, rye, 3@3¾ lower and provisions at declines of 2 to 35 cents.

GOVERNMENT HALTS SHIPMENTS OF HOGS

Temporary Ban Placed Because of Overflow at Market Points.

A temporary halt in shipments of pigs and brood sows under the government's plan to slaughter 5,000,000 animals has been called until the markets recover from present overflow, R. H. Gilbert, emergency agricultural assistant in Marion county, was notified today.

Shipments from this county started Saturday and continued yesterday. No others are to be scheduled, it was announced, until notice is received from Cleveland or other authorized market points.

Gilbert's notice further stated that permission to ship pigs and sows to authorized markets must be obtained from designated commission agencies at the proper markets, or from these agencies through livestock shippers or other authorized agencies.

The notice urged hog raisers to delay their shipments at least another week or two, since the plan will be in effect until at least Oct. 1, allowing, one official said, "ample time to deliver either pigs or sows to the market Producers also are asked to find out whether the market point is authorized to pay the premiums for pigs or sows before shipping. This information may be obtained, the notice said from local shippers.

MARYSVILLE JUSTICE FREES BUCYRUS MAN

Holds Marion Resident to Grand Jury on Embezzlement Charge.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Aug 29—When a man hires a carpenter to take the lock off a filling station door, it is not a felony unless an intent to steal can be proven, Justice John H. Kinkade has ruled in dismissing a housebreaking charge brought against H M. Oberlander of Bucyrus by Walter Starling of Marion.

After the dismissal, Justice Kinkade bound Starling to the grand jury on an embezzlement charge, filed by Oberlander.

Starling, who formerly operated a filling station at Richwood for Oberlander, had been accused by his employer of embezzlement of $262. Oberlander said he notified Starling he was coming to Richwood at a certain time to make a settlement. Starling is said to have locked up the station and to have been away when Oberlander arrived.

In his charge, Starling asserts that Oberlander hired a carpenter, took off the door of the station and obtained the books and accounts.
